dividing, by a computer, a structured document in XML format, which is composed of tagged documents listed sequentially and ordered hierarchically, by tags, in a file; and

converting said structured document into tagged documents that added positional information comprising an index indicating an order of a respective tagged document in the structured document and a depth of the respective tagged document defined by the XML structured document format in said structured document, wherein said converting comprises converting the structured document into a new structured document in XML format by adding said index and said depth information as attribute values restricted by a namespace so that the structured document can be restored.

Please replace claim 2 as follows:

2. A method for converting a structured document comprising:

dividing, by a computer, a structured document in XML format, which is composed of tagged documents listed sequentially and ordered hierarchically, by tags, in a file; and

information of said converted tagged documents; and restoring said structured document in XML format by deleting said positional information from said tagged documents, wherein said converting comprises converting the structured document into a new structured document in XML format by adding said index and said depth information as attribute values restricted by a namespace.

Please replace claim 10 as follows:

10. A method for converting and restoring a structured document, comprising:
dividing a structured document in XML format, which is composed of tagged documents listed sequentially and ordered hierarchically, by tags, in a file;

converting said structured document into tagged documents that added positional information comprising an index indicating an order of a tagged document in the structured document and a depth of the tagged document defined by the XML structured document format in said structured document, rearranging said tagged documents in accordance with said added positional information of said converted tagged documents; and

wherein said converting comprises adding said positional information as attribute information in respective tags.

Please replace claim 16 as follows:

16. A computer readable storage medium stored program for converting a structured document, said program comprising:

a program for dividing a structured document in XML format, which is composed of tagged documents listed sequentially and ordered hierarchically, by tags; and a program for converting said structured document into tagged documents that added positional information comprising an index indicating an order of a respective tagged document in the structured document and a depth of the respective tagged document defined by the XML structured document format in said structured document, wherein said converting program comprises a program for converting the structured document into a new structured document in XML format by adding said index and said depth information-as attribute values restricted by a namespace so that the structured document can be restored.

Please replace claim 18 as follows:

18. A computer readable storage medium stored program for converting and restoring a structured document in XML format, said program comprising:

a program for dividing a structured document in XML format, which is composed of tagged documents listed sequentially and ordered hierarchically, by tags;

positional information of said converted tagged documents; and a program for deleting said positional information from said tagged documents, wherein said converting program comprises a program for converting the structured document into a new structured document in XML format that added index and depth information for said structured documents as attribute values restricted by a namespace.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding independent claims 1, 2, 9, 10, 16 and 18 (renumbered as claims 1, 2, 9, 12, 16 and 18 respectively), the features of converting an XML document comprising tagged documents by adding position information indicating an order and a depth of a tagged document as attribute values directly into the XML document so that the XML document is restored after the converting are not shown and would not have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention in view of the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
